CITY'S GARBAGE PRODUCT

Urgent Necessity for the Erection of Another Crematory.

PRESENT ONE INADEQUATE

Subject Discussed at Length by Commissioners and Contractor—Another Conference to Be Held Today—Collections Increased to Sixty-five Tons Per Day—Other District Matters.

Garbage disposal is just now a live topic at the District building, the necessity for a provision for ways and means for the increase of facilities is forced upon the Commissioners by the approach of the heated season.

Sixty-five tons of refuse were received at the crematory, and it is evident that at that rate a plant that is only fitted for the consumption of sixty tons in ten hours will not be equal to the demand for space. Contractor Warfield, his attorney, Mr. H. E. Davis, and his assistant, Mr. S. P. Bailey, were in consultation with the Commissioners, Auditor Petty and Health Officer Woodward yesterday afternoon for two hours discussing the situation. No conclusion was reached, and the question will be again canvassed today, when there will be a decision made.

Another point raised for determination by the Commissioners is upon a difference of opinion as to the method adopted by the health officer to enforce compliance with the garbage regulations. Mr. Warfield objects to the rigid rule of fining for violations.

MR. WARFIELD'S POINT.
His contention is that the collections from the 45,000 houses in the District cannot be made without an occasional omission, and that when there are but few complaints the health officer should not enforce a fine; or, in other words, where there might be but a dozen or fifteen complaints in any twenty-four hours, the service should be ruled as satisfactory.

Mr. Woodward would not agree to this. He said the object of the law was to exact as nearly a perfect service as possible, and that the collection of a fine for each violation was a means to that end.

He contended that the absence of charges was not conclusive evidence of a faithful discharge of duty upon the part of the contractor, and that to ignore even a single complaint might be to excuse a flagrant violation.

Mr. Warfield further claims that where the police court has jurisdiction of a case it is not proper, nor just, for the health officers to exercise the prerogative of a judicial officer and inflict a penalty. There was but a single case, the imposition of a fine of $10, brought to the attention of the board, but upon that the test will be made.

RECOMMEND ADVERSE ACTION.
The Commissioners recommended adverse action, yesterday, in two communications to Chairman Babcock, of the House District Committee, upon bills for the separate extension of two city thoroughfares—one being House bill $113, applying to New Jersey avenue, between Brightwood and Whittier avenues; the other, House bill $114, for the extension of Eleventh street from E to F street to New Jersey avenue.

The legislation asked for is for the benefit of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home and the Brightwood Railway Companies, respectively, whose officials are seeking an outlet to the Zoo.

The Commissioners have submitted to Congress a bill conferring the right of Extension upon each of these companies, and it is the purpose of their attorneys to get a bill through to establish the streets in order that the right of way may be ascertained and located.

By way of comment upon each of these measures the Commissioners say that the power contemplated in the act referred to the highway act—was the outcome of many years of experience of the municipal authorities of this District and of Congress in dealing with the subject of street extension, and was decided upon as the only practical way to secure harmonious and economical results in that direction. To depart from this policy would be a retrograde step, which would reopen the whole question and involve a repetition of the costly and embarrassing complications which led to its adoption.

PREFER HIGHWAY ACT.

They also reiterate their opinion that the measure providing for general extensions, as amended, is the best solution of the whole matter, and say they propose to discourage legislation not consistent with that plan.

Prof. S. P. Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, whose adverse opinion of the Mount Pleasant and Zoo Gravity Railway was filed several days ago, has written a second letter to the Commissioners, in which he speaks in highest terms of their proposition for the extension of existing roads in the direction of the park.

He regards that plan as the one which will better than any other enable the people to reach the Zoo. The Commissioners forwarded a copy of the letter to Senator McMillan, chairman of the Senate District Committee, and to Chairman Babcock of the House Committee.

Building permits were issued yesterday as follows: W. J. Dantz, two dwellings, Nos. 332 and 334 Third street southeast, $1,800; Mary E. Hartigan, two dwellings, Nos. 634 and 636 M street southeast, $1,800; Cleveland Park Company, dwelling, No. 3322 Newark street, $3,000. Application was filed by the heirs of William Stone for four-story business, No. 1345 E street, valuation not stated.

REACHED NO VERDICT.

Jury in the Oleomargarine Case Locked Up for the Night.
The case of James T. Childress, indicted under the oleomargarine law, went to the jury in Judge Cole's court shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and having failed to reach a verdict at 9 o'clock last night, the court ordered the jurors locked up until 10 o'clock this morning.

The following gentlemen constitute the panel: Messrs. Christian Groener, James W. McKee, E. D. Donnell, J. T. Simpson, James G. Livingston, L. N. Hangan, Louis B. Graves, William H. Birch, George Thomas, James Coleman, W. H. H. Gould, and Bernard F. Joy.

The jury came in at 8:30 o'clock last night and asked for instruction on a point of law. When they returned to the jury room it was their impression a verdict would be reached in five or ten minutes. After the lapse of half an hour Judge Cole ordered them locked up for the remainder of the night.

DID MUCH FOR CHARITY.
Treasurer's Statement of the Emergency Relief Committee.

Mr. Archibald Hopkins, chairman of the emergency relief committee, has made public the treasurer's statement of receipts and disbursements by the committee during the first winter in connection with the Associated Charities.

In addition to the expenditures below accounted for, a considerable amount of clothing and groceries received by private gift, and 800 bushels of coke donated by the Washington Gaslight Company were distributed.

Total amount of cash received, $2,512.75. Disbursements—By 976 orders for fuel, $1,083.93; 841 orders for groceries, $1,041.98; 12 orders for shoes, $18.87; cash paid for fueling wood, groceries, etc., donated, $113.05; printing order books, $12.50. Total, $2,270.35. Balance on hand, $242.40.

Gets Pay for Her Injuries.
Hannah O'Leary was granted damages in the sum of $2,750 against the Washington and Annapolis Railroad Company in a suit decided yesterday by a jury in Judge McComas' court.

The plaintiff was injured by falling from one of the company's cars at Pennsylvania avenue and Seventh street November 8, 1892.
